

Athens Short Film Festival 2024

12 - 15 December at the Mikrokosmos Cinema

The Athens Short Film Festival 2024 will take place from 12-15 December at the Mikrokosmos Cinema screening 40 independent short films by upcoming filmmakers from 21 countries.

This year's programme combines fiction and documentary films of various genres. Approaching topics such as daily challenges, fears, and modern life issues from different perspectives, the Festival's 7 themes interweave a tapestry of all these that define, concern or bewilder us.

The city is one of ASFF's main themes and features its own thematic strand titled 'The city sings to me' which brings 6 different stories with the urban landscape as the main setting. A special place also holds a selection of films dedicated to females. 'This is a girl's world' examines personal experiences, fictional stories, opinions and narrations by women from around the world. The 'short mixtapes' themes bring a wide range of topics, genres and aesthetics blending films of various genres. During the Festival will also take place Q&A with filmmakers from Greece and abroad.
